the cut of the gentlemen's pants. A great many people—particularly those averse to innevations—wonder who it is that first sets in motion these "new tangled ideas" in respect to dress, and generally come to the conclusion that it must be some individual who aims only to make people's clothes practically good for nothing before they clube clothes are half worn out. This is, no doubt, a wise conclusion. There is also a retrain class of ladies and gouleness who bet their faces against the new lashions—speak of them as about "ridiculous, they will present an "nudivided front" on Monday. The short dresses, now in vogue, will be worn throughout the season, for out-door walking—that is a short dress with petitional to match. Some of these dresses are very short, indeed, and cut in very fantastic chapes. Many hang in long points from the waist, wide apart, and snowing a large amount of petiticoat. These dresses require short sacques to be worn with them, and the latter are frequently made of the same materials. Sharts are not considered. the latter are frequently made of the same materials. Shawls are not considered materials. Shawls are not considered of march immediately upon the firing of the graceful, being too heavy in appearance. For indoors, balls, parties, etc., the gored dress will be worn, made plain at the top, or with plaits at the buck, according to the latter of the wearer. The Finans.—General Gleeson arrived in the city yesterday from Washington where he has been staying for some time past, attending to busin as connected with the erganization. He is very sanguine in regard to the success of the present movement in Ireland, and states that the war has now commenced in carnest that the movements up to the present time were merely feints, and that the movements hereafter will be on a larger scale. James Stephens is said to be at present staying in Taris, but he is no longer connected with the organization, at least the latter will not recognize him. Money and maintions of war area still being received at Headquarters, and an effort is being made, by several prominent and wealthy gentlemen to raise a fund of $1,000,000, and it is thought the effort will be successful. The Prectors of the movement of 18 are also about to hand over the funds to the care of the Executive Alexentic two organizations. Cleeson and Roberts—are now very favorable. The rank and file scen perfectly willing, and no doubt before many days the breach that has existed as long will be headed.

ST PATRICK'S DAY.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE CELEBRATION IN NEW YORK, BROOKLIN AND JEHSEY CITY—A GRAND TIME EXPECTED—MEETING OF THE IRISH SOCIETIES LAST NIGHT, ETC., ETC.—
The arrangements for the celebration of the Birthday of Saint Patrick are nearly concluded, and from present appearances, the occasion will be observed in a manner that
him. occasion will be observed in a manner that will eclipse any previous celebration of the Southern Relief. - To morrow is the event in this city. To-morrow is St. Pat. day appointed for taking up a collection in rick's day, but Monday, the 18th, will be the all the churches, in aid of the destitute i day on which the great demonstration will take place. The military display and the take place. The military display and the civic procession promises to be very grand. For many weeks past the Father Mathew and other Irish civic societies have held meetings for the purpose of making the noceasing and the fashion," there must be a great many people at the present time who had "better be out of the world" on account of their in ability to keep in the fashion. The old lady whose flat declares what we shall wear Dame Fashion—is a fickle Jade indeed. She plays the most marvellous tricks with the addies' bonnets, and at the same time defines the cut of the gentlemen's pants. A great many people—particularly those averse to many people—particularly those averse to

Fashion to paraphrase; "doth make converts of its all."

The laddes are now very busily engaged ascessing the Spring Fashions, and the store windows and the show cases on Broadway, and on the other principal thorough larses, are filled with new hat and bonnets, and cloaks and dresses, and flowers and trimmings, it fact all the articles which feminine eyes love to gaze upon. Yeaterday was not a very agreeable day for shopping, ladies were muffled up in furs, the windows could frozen—in fact the Brooklyn societies is Daniel College with was anything but a Spring day. Thus, the light goods in the windows contrasted Grangely with outside objects.

BONNETS.

The new Spring bonnets are very similar in shape to the "Gissey" in front and sides, but have quite a large crown, and curtains of shout one inch in width. They are very diminutive, buffunch more like a bonnet as is a bonnet, than the rindless headcoverings worm at present. They are made of straw, BROOKLYN AND JERSEY CITY.

CONVENTION OF TRISH SOCIETIES.

An adjourned meeting of the Convention of Irish Societies was held at Hibernian Hall, No. 65 Prince street, last evening, for Hall, No. 65 Prince street, last evening, for the purpose of completing arrangements for the celebration. The customary prelim-inary business having been disposed of, Secretary Carey proceeded to instruct the delegates present regarding the position to be assumed by the various bodies which are to compose the processon. He also cautioned the delegates against delay in arriving at the points of rendezvous laid down in the programme, as it is the inten-tion of the Grand Marshal to take up the line of march immediately upon the firing of the

The speech, which breathed the true spirit of patriotism, was received with applause, and at the conclusion a standing vote of thanks was tendered the reverend gentleman. The Committee then adjourned.

THE LITERARY CLASS of the Young Men's Christian Association hold a public meeting on Monday evening, at their Rooms, No. 161 Fifth avenue. There will be a debate and other literary exercises. The subject of discussion will be: "Did the Puritanism of New England lay a better foundation for the prosperity of this country than more liberal principles would have done."

THE COURTS. U. S. COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE—PENSION AND BOUNTY FORGERS IN TROUBLE.—James Russell and John Mathews were before Russell and John Mathews were before Commissioner Betts yesterday morning, charged with having attempted to defraud the U.S. Government by presenting forged papers for the purpose of obtaining back pay and bounty which rightfully belonged to other parties. The defendants claim to have belonged to the 12th U.S. Infantry. The Lieutenant-Colonel of that regiment testified that the signatures to the certificates of discharge were forgeries. No defence being made the defendants were fully committed to await the action of the Grand Jury.

MARINE COURT-SUIT FOR SALARY. George W. Shaw agt. Alexander Rumsey et al. The plaintiff in this case alleges that ot al. The plaintiff in this case alleges that he was employed by the defendants, in July last as a salesman, the agreement between them being that he should receive a month by stipend of $250, and a commission of $250 per cent, on all sales over $80,000, the agreement to remain in force until the lat of January following. He was discharged from defendant's employ in November, and now brings suit for his salary from that time to the first of the year.

The defendants allege that they only took the young man on his own representations, and that finding that the amount of trade which he brought did not warrant them in paying him so high a salary they discharged him. Defendants also deny that they made any agreement with the plaintiff to keep him in their employ for any specified time unless he suited them; the agreement being that he should receive that salary until the lat of the year, provided they were satisfied with him. The case is still on trial.

standing vote of thanks was tendered the work will no doubt be in vogue during the spring and summer. The coat sleeve sacque now worn is a favorite with the fair sex, although the flowing sleeve is gaining considerable popularity. Some are made half coat sleeve and half flowing that is a flowing sleeve over a coat sleeve, the former reaching is far as the elbow; this is pretty and somewhat novel. The styles of the peplam basque are very numerous, and some of them very attractive.

There is little to be noted in regard to children's dices, excepting that the gay colors now wern will prevail. Taken altogether the change in ladies dress is not so radical in its character as usual, and what changes have been made are apparently wise ones; the decrease of rimoline, and the increase in the size of bonnets for instance. The shopkeepers are expecting to reap a rich harvest when the present "cold snap"—which will no doubt be of pring duration—terminates.

suspected, and when they were no one cared to be the first to chilghten the Squire; nor did the most prying gossip suspect that any interference would be too late; that Letty during her half-yearly holiday, had been quietly and privately married to Mark Lay ton, at a church near the residence of the deaf elderly cousin she went to visit.

But so it was. With no relative at hand to advise or warn her, prompted solely by her affection, and believing that Mark had sufficient reason for the secrety he enjoined, in the harsh judgment of the Pesborough folks, Letty consented to be his, and to retain her situation until his plans for their future were arranged.

Mark was going abroad—so Mrs. Henderson averred, and he did not contradict it; but yet he shrunk from the subject with such a pained look, whenever his young wife named it, that she, fancying him depressed by his projected emigration, passed half her nights in vain regrets that he had determined upon it.

She longed to discuss it with him, and tried to hit upon some plan by which they might earn a decent irvelihood in their own country; and she became yet more anxions to do this after Mrs. Henderson harshly rated him in her presence for wasting time, and holding back when there was a golden opportunity within reach.

"I did not quite comprehend your sister," said Letty, as he lingered by her sile in the avenue; "she knows all your plans, Mark, dear. Have you not the same confidence in me!"
